Historical Sites, Businesses, Professionals and Tradesmen in Jackson County, Alabama

An abundance of historical information exists and is available in the area in a variety of local sources. Quite a bit of old information was found in early Jackson County Court records by our small group of volunteers, working at the County Courthouse in 2003.

The following directory of historical sites, old businesses, merchants, professionals, tradesmen, etc., has been compiled to identify some of the early activity in the various communities throughout Jackson County. It is available to researchers at the Heritage Center and Library in Scottsboro.

Material has been obtained from the memories of residents and from the following sources:

- History of Jackson County, by John Robert Kennamer, Sr.
- The Woodville Story, by John Robert Kennamer, Sr.
- Jackson County Chronicles
- The Story of Scottsboro Alabama, by W. Jerry Gist

There was a veterinarian, Dr. A.W. Rigney in Paint Rock Valley in 1887, however we have not been able to determine where he was located; also a Dr. James L. Hudson, Sr. was practicing in Jackson County during the Civil War.

In 1882, it was proposed that a "Gurleys and Paint Rock Valley Railway Company" be formed in a plan to open up and develop the extensive timber and mineral stores in the Paint Rock Valley. The railroad would run from Gurley in the south, through Trenton, Queencity (Hollytree?), Claycross (Princeton), Larkins and Estil, near the north end of the Valley. It would ultimately connect Deposit on the Tennessee River with Winchester in Tennessee.

Lewis Wendell Page recalled his father showing him a portion of the railroad bed just north of US 72, west of the village of Paint Rock. Ora Lee Sisk related that some of the railroad bed had also been built just south of Princeton.

Walls of Jericho

The Walls of Jericho is a spectacular rock valley along Turkey Creek, running southeast across the southern border of Franklin County, Tennessee and through the northern border of Jackson County, Alabama. The steep rock sides of the valley rise vertically some 200', before their slopes decrease as they continue upward on Cumberland Mountain.

Turkey Creek, and Mill Creek to the east, empty into Hurricane Creek, which continues south-southwest in Jackson County through the sites of the old communities of Wallston, Jack Lane and Greerton for a distance of about 8 miles, where it combines with Estill Fork to begin the Paint Rock River, one mile south of the village of Estillfork.

There is an old Clark Cemetery located in the meadow beneath the bluff on the southwest side of Turkey Creek, .1 mi. from the conjunction with Hurricane Creek. It is estimated to contain 25 burials. The earliest burial date is estimated to be between 1870 and 1881. Data on several of the burials are now available at the Scottsboro Jackson Heritage Center.

Bucks Pocket State Park

This park is a 2000 acre recreation area with tent and trailer campsites at the south end of Jackson County, along the border between Jackson, DeKalb and Marshall Counties. It is so-named because it is essentially an 800' deep "pocket" (or canyon) with steep sides, formed in Sand Mountain.

Old campsites and two large burial grounds are evidence of early Cherokee encampment in the area. In more recent years, it is said to be a haven where defeated political candidates can go to recover from their losses.
